

If I died tonight
It would be alright
Under stars that burn bright

Because my heart is full
With a love so true
It fills it through

My thoughts run deep
They will fill my sleep
With people who my heart keep

I hope you have known
A love that has shown
That place we know as home

It's not the walls that surround
It's not the foundation in the ground
It's not the house's familiar sounds

It's those people who are true
And through whatever we do
They love us through

What roads down we go
Whatever life lets us know
These people keep us whole

Knowing these few
Has made me love true
And gotten me through

And now I can live free
Till God calls on me
And then we can meet

Then both our hearts will be free
To feel together, you and me
Something so deep.

Author: Richard Engle